

EXTREMAL NETWORKS IN NORMED PLANES AND MAXWELL FORMULA

Denis Ilyutko

Dept. of Mechanics and Mathematics, Moscow State University, Leninskiye Gory, GSP-1, Moscow 119991, Russia

Delone Laboratory of Discrete and Computational Geometry, Yaroslavl State University, Sovetskaya str. 14 Yaroslavl, 150000, Russia

[ilyutko@yandex.ru]

Having a local minimal tree in the Euclidean plane can one find its length by knowing the coordinates of boundary vertices and the vectors of boundary edges? The classical Maxwell formula gives the answer to this question. We address to the same question in a normed plane.