

The registration period for the 2010 3-month SimLab internships at TU München, Germany has started

The internship is for obtaining further experience in numerical simulation and parallel programming. Accommodation in Germany and travelling costs from and to your home country will be covered by a scholarship provided by the SimLab programme.

If you decide to apply for one of the internships, please send your application until 15.03.2010 to Vasco Varduhn (varduhn@tum.de) containing a covering letter including a photo together with your CV and a record of your grades.

The SimLab programme takes place within the stability pact for South-Eastern Europe and is financially supported by German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD). Further information about the SimLab programme and the scholarship can be found under
